Nixon Accepts Paris Bid on Mideast

JAPANESE STUDENTS RIOT — Radical Japanese students, wearing riot helmets and carrying wooden staves, climb over the fence at the U. S. Embassy compound in Tokyo. The students invaded the building, broke several windows and hung banners from an upstairs balcony. The banners called for the repudiation of Japan's alliance with the U. S. and removal of American B-52 bombers from the island of Okinawa. (UPI RADIOTELEPHOTO)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has decided to accept a French proposal for early talks among great power representatives at the United Nations on ways to break the deadlock in Middle East peace efforts.

He hopes particularly for parallel action by the Soviet Union.

A reply to the Paris government is due to go out this week. It is expected to make clear that while the United States sees hope in consultations with the Soviet Union, Britain and France its primary purpose is to move off dead center the U.N. peace-seeking efforts of Swedish Ambassador Gunnar Jarring.

Calls on Ike

With the explosive Middle East on his mind, Nixon visited with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower Sunday at Walter Reed Hospital to get the general's views on the Arab-Israeli crisis.

Following the session with the convalescing Eisenhower, Nixon said he had gotten several valuable suggestions and "We are considering all the initiatives we might take to defuse the situation" in the Middle East. The President did not elaborate.

In a related move, Nixon will send a friendly message to Gamal Abdel Nasser in the near future, replying to a note of congratulation he received from the Egyptian President.

His note will be designed to indicate that if Nasser, as reported, plans to propose resuming diplomatic relations with the United States he will find Nixon responsive.

While the Middle East crisis, and the Vietnam situation have dominated Nixon's foreign policy concerns during his first 10 days in office, he has also set in motion a plan to visit several Western European capitals in the next two months and confer with allied government chiefs.

Diplomatic soundings for the trip have been started, and the White House is due to make an announcement soon on his plans.

Nixon expects to visit Paris.

President Nixon called his Urban Affairs Council to another meeting as he continued formulating plans to deal with the problems in the nation's cities. Story on Page 22.

site of the Vietnam peace talks, and meet with President Charles de Gaulle. Other capitals which figure in informed speculation are London, Bonn and Rome.

A meeting with Soviet leaders is not being considered at this time, although the President hopes to visit Moscow later on.

Meanwhile the President is projecting action on two other fronts involving Soviet-U.S. relations.

He plans to send to the Senate this week a recommendation for early approval of the treaty to block the spread of nuclear weapons.

The United States signed the pact last year, but Senate approval and final U.S. ratifications were delayed after the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in August.

Nixon is also actively interested in starting technical talks with Moscow on limiting the deployment of nuclear missiles as soon as he considers that the world political climate is favorable.

In the view of some Nixon advisers, however, Soviet policy on peace in the Middle East will have an important influence on the international political climate and therefore on prospects for progress in the missile negotiations.

Iraq Claims 2 of 14 Israeli Craft Downed

By MURRAY J. BROWN
United Press International

Iraq said 14 Israeli planes today attacked Iraqi forces stationed in Jordan and that anti-aircraft fire shot down two of the aircraft.

There was no Jordanian or Israeli confirmation of the Iraqi military announcement broadcast by Baghdad Radio.

Earlier Jordan said two Israeli planes bombed its territory with napalm but were driven back by anti-aircraft fire onto Israel's side of their ceasefire line. Israeli spokesmen in Jerusalem said two of the jets struck Jordanian positions that had opened fire on an Israeli patrol on its side of the Jordan River line.

The action erupted as President Nixon embarked on a Middle East peace drive. He moved toward big power talks and resumption of formal relations with Egypt.

The Baghdad Radio report said 14 Israeli planes staged a 25-minute raid. It said one Iraqi soldier was slightly wounded. It said the two downed Israeli planes "were seen falling in the direction of the (Israeli-occupied) Syrian Heights." Baghdad Radio said the other 12 Israeli jets fled.

In Jerusalem, Israeli officials said the two planes today went into action "over the sources of Jordanian fire," answering the fire directed at an Israeli patrol.

In Tel Aviv, Israel warned Iraq it will "not sit back" if the Iraqis continue hanging Jews as alleged spies. In Baghdad, the Iraqis had announced they would do just that.

In Cairo, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt and Alexander N. Shelepin, visiting Soviet Communist Party president, wound up talks Sunday night. The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahran said, "There was full agreement that the situation in the Middle East has reached, through the continuation of Israeli aggression, an extremely serious point and might explode at any minute."

Al Ahran said it expected Nixon's agreement to the big power talks with Russia, Britain and France. But it said it doubted Israel would accept a big power peace solution if it meant Israeli withdrawal from Arab lands taken in the 1967 Middle East war.

Underlining Cairo's warning of the seriousness of the current situation around the Holy Land, Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon issued his nation's warning to Iraq Sunday night in a speech to a mass rally in Tel Aviv.

Allon said Israel's failure to act thus far against Iraq for the hanging of nine Jews a week ago—part of 14 Iraqis hanged for being alleged Israeli spies—should not be seen as weakness. "Israel will not sit back in the face of maltreatment and persecution of Jews where they are. Israel's present restraint is proof of our political maturity," he said.

In Cairo, visiting Iraqi Information Minister Abdullah Salloum Samarra had said Saturday his nation "shortly" would defy world opinion and resume the trials that led to last week's hangings. "We shall hang in the public squares of Baghdad and other Iraqi cities any persons who launch sabotage or spy activities against our country, even if the whole world protested . . ." he told newsmen.

Pueblo Inquiry Resumes

Secret 'Spook Unit' Testimony

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI)—during last week's sessions of the court of inquiry, and he refreshed by a three-day weekend with his family, returned today on a trip with his wife, Rose, and to the inquiry into the loss of their sons, Michael, 16, and his ship and testimony by his intelligence officer.

Will Return to Stand
Lt. Stephen R. Harris, 21, who headed the Pueblo's "spook unit" when the ship was seized by North Korean gunboats, was to testify secretly for 90 minutes before the hearing was opened to the public.

Last week's sessions were Bucher was tense and pale held in secret because matters of national security were discussed, but the Los Angeles Times reported today it had learned certain parts of the testimony of the former captain of the Pueblo's sister intelligence ship, the Banner.

Cmdr. Charles R. Clark told the five-admiral board last Wednesday he "had no fear" during missions off Soviet Siberia because the Russians "would have too much to lose" in world opinion if they seized his ship, the Times said.

Clark said the North Koreans and the Communist Chinese "were doubtful factors . . . no one knew what they would do." He said the Banner was unarmed and if he was attacked he did not believe any help could have reached him in an hour's time.

The Associated Press, meanwhile, reported today that the "Bucher's Bastards" are a ship's company without a ship. It feels a little strange to the men, but they're trying to operate like a ship's crew anyway.

Their intelligence ship, captured last year by North Korea, is in the Communist country.

In their two-story stucco barracks at the North Island Naval Air Station, the 81 men of USS Pueblo set up a ship's office in a small room.

Adjacent are offices for the skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, and the executive officer, Lt. Edward R. Murphy Jr., who are appearing at a court of inquiry into the capture, which is being held at an Amphibious training school nearby.

Murphy takes the stand in an open session today, after testimony from Rear Adm. George L. Cassell, chief of staff for operations for the commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet during the capture of the Pueblo by North Koreans.

Meanwhile, CWO Gene Howard Lacy, 38, of Seattle, Wash., says, "We're trying to take over our files and assume the duties of a ship's crew as much as possible."

"Of course, we don't have a ship, so our only real duties are cleaning up the dormitories and a fire watch and a phone watch set in each dormitory."

North Koreans freed the Pueblo's 82 men last December, along with the body of the 83rd crewman, who was killed during the capture. But they kept the Pueblo.

Being a ship's company without a ship is strange, says Lacy, "but we've felt strange that way for the last year. It's not like being on a ship, and it never will be."

Except for leave and liberty, which are generous, the men will remain in their barracks near the court of inquiry until its proceedings are complete—at least another three weeks.

Some of them have dubbed themselves "Bucher's Bastards," in a show of loyalty to their skipper during his appearances before the court.

"Dear captain," they wrote him on a piece of Pueblo stationery. "We've made it this far together, and we'll finish it together. (signed) Bucher's Bastards."

Some crew members, like Murphy and Lt. Harris, have homes in the Coronado-San Diego area. They have been getting overnight and weekend liberty to be with their families.

So has Bucher, but he hasn't seen much of his wife and two teen-age sons. He remains until midnight sometimes in his barracks office.

Lyle Giving Up Post

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Kingston City Clerk Thomas R. (Bud) Lyle told The Freeman today that he will resign (as clerk) by April 1.

Lyle, chairman of the Kingston Democratic committee, said that he would make no recommendations for a successor either as outgoing clerk or as city chairman.

The job pays $8,500 per year. Lyle was appointed by former Mayor John J. Schwenk on Dec. 27, 1965 and was subsequently reappointed by Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan.

Ray Disappointed
Garraghan expressed "disappointment" at Lyle's announced resignation today. "That city clerk's job is tough," Garraghan said. "Buddy (Lyle) did a top notch job for the city."

The Long Wait — But a Happy Ending

Part of the massive crowd which lined the west shore of the Hudson River for about three hours Sunday, after a plane reportedly had crashed through ice off the Hudson Cement Company plant, stands in mud and wet snow as the river is scanned. Scores of officers from the state police stations, city police and deputy sheriffs took part in the search on shore as a tug boat and a Coast Guard vessel groped through the ice. Search ended late in the day when authorities learned that an aircraft reported to be overdue at the Red Hook Airport had landed safely. Warren Dawson, 35, of 612 Delaware Avenue, was on his way to work when he saw a plane disappear from view as his car passed over a knoll on the back road. He got word to a cement company employee who called police. Other agencies were notified and hurried to the riverfront. (Freeman photo by Haines)

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—U. S. District Judge Robert W. Hemphill is considering a petition of Pvt. Peter S. Brooks of Newburgh, N. Y., who has appealed for a discharge from the Army as a conscientious objector.

Judge Hemphill heard Brooks' habeas corpus petition in federal court here Wednesday after the Army and the Defense Department had denied the Ft. Jackson-based soldier such classification.

Death Ruling Due

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A coroner's ruling was expected today in the death of a 17-year-old white boy who police said was killed during a scuffle Sunday night in a ghetto theater featuring a movie on racial violence.

Police said at first that the victim, David Hisgen of nearby Colonie, had been beaten to death, probably with a lead pipe.

Early today, however, they said the possibility that the youth had been killed in a fall had not been ruled out.

After Traffic Mishap

Police Investigate Bizarre Shooting

By SHANE CROSBY.
HUDSON — State police are still puzzled as they wait, for a coroner's verdict in what one trooper called the most bizarre apparent suicide case on record. A 28-year-old man fatally shot himself in the head as he sat in his car following an accident on Route 9 near this city on Saturday.

Lawrence Miller of nearby Philmont pulled a .22-caliber revolver from his car's glove compartment less than two minutes after the crash that injured five persons. Police said they were less than five feet away from the car, helping the injured into waiting ambulances as Miller fired the fatal shot. He had been asked by police and attendants if he wanted to go to a hospital for examination, but declined treatment. They said he walked to his car as Paula Hornung, 22, of this city, a passenger in Miller's car, was being placed in the ambulance. She was listed in satisfactory condition at a Hudson hospital. No motive could be given by police, but members of his family told authorities that he had been despondent for some time. It was theorized by troopers that Miller suspected the others had been seriously injured. The accident occurred on Route 9 south of this Columbia County city about 9:30 p.m. Miller and the Hornung woman were traveling south on the road and crashed into the rear of a car being driven by Clarence Schufelt, 49, also of Philmont. Schufelt and three others in his car were injured, none seriously. They were treated and released at a nearby hospital. Injured passengers in the Schufelt car were Geraldine Willoughby of West Taghkanic and her two sons, Donald, 16, and Robert, 11. Miller was taken to Albany Medical Center where he died within minutes. He is survived by a wife and two children, living in California. No ruling has been issued in the case, but police expect a verdict shortly. They said "the shot was self-inflicted."

26 Motorists Nabbed by Radar
Kingston police were on the job on Friday with radar equipment and in about two hours they cited 26 motorists on charges of exceeding the city's speed limit. The summonses are returnable before City Judge Hubert A. Richter. Donald A. Gaddis, 42, of RD 5, Box 331A, Kingston, was summoned on charges of speeding and passing a flashing red light. Gary T. Farrell, 18, of 28 Clermont Street, Saugerties, was booked on charges of driving the wrong way on a one-way street and failure to produce a registration certificate for the vehicle he was driving.

For Richardson, Klein
Council to Study Pay Raise

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Kingston Common Council meets Tuesday night and will deal with a varied agenda, including pay raises for the city's corporation counsel and assessor. Currently, the assessor (Matthias Richardson) and the corporation counsel (Aaron E. Klein) are paid $7,500 annually. A resolution by the laws and rules committee asks that their salaries be increased to $8,500. The increase, if granted, will bring the two on a par with the city treasurer and city clerk, both of whom earn $8,500 per year.

The aldermen are also expected to vote on a zoning petition by Richard McSpirt of 80 Hurley Avenue. He is asking for a change from Residential-1 to Residential-2. The resolution notes that there were no objections to the change at a public hearing held Jan. 28. The Council is expected to approve contracts between the city's fire and police departments for this year. The firemen are represented by the Uniform Fire Fighters Association and the police by the Kingston Patrolmen's Association. Also on the agenda is the renewal of the city's lease with the Art Students League in Woodstock for city-owned land in that township off Rt. 212. The lease will be for five years. The Art Student's League had offered to buy the land it now leases, and for a time, Mayor Raymond W. Garraghar was in favor of selling it. However, little has been heard of that possibility since a visit by the mayor and a number of aldermen to the Woodstock property last summer.

SEEK SURFING AREA — Two lone surfers walk along a Ventura beach in search of a surfing area not affected by an oil slick, fed by a runaway offshore well. The oil has menaced miles of glistening white Southern California beaches and threatened wildlife. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Hickel Arrives at the Scene Of 126,000 Gallon Oil Slick

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — As westward winds pushed a spreading ocean oil slick away from Southern California beaches, Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel arrived saying he'll do "what has to be done."

"I'm not here making any charges," Hickel said Sunday night after a flight from Washington, "only to do for the general welfare what has to be done." He has been under pressure by conservation groups to halt any damage to wildlife, fish and beaches.

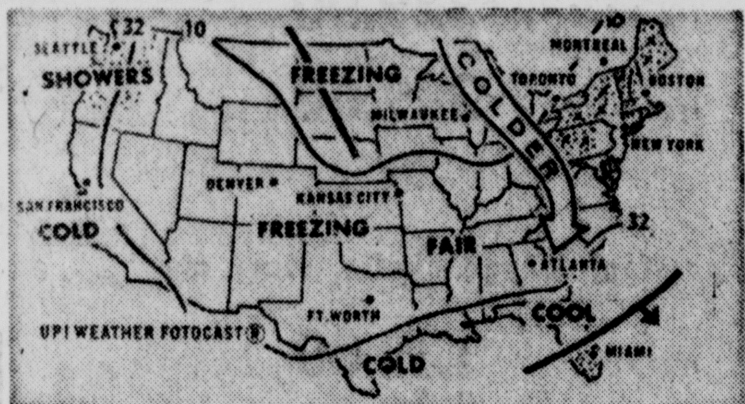

Hickel was expected to take charge of the six-day-old battle to cap the undersea well and disperse an estimated 126,000 gallons of floating oil.

SURPRISE VISIT — Widespread speculation was set off in Budapest by the projected surprise, 24-hour visit Sunday of Papal emissary Cardinal Franz Koenig (L) to Josef Mindszenty, 77-year-old Cardinal in exile. The visit comes in the wake of obvious marked improvements of relations between Janos Kadar's regime and the Vatican, indicated by the appointment of two new archbishops, three bishops and five apostolic administrators to Hungary January 23. It is hoped the Hungarian government will allow Cardinal Mindszenty to go free from self-exile in the U. S. Mission where he has been ever since the abortive anti-Communist counter-revolution in 1956. However, no dramatic developments nor an imminent solution to the "Mindszenty Problem," involving the governments of Hungary and the U. S. and the Vatican, is expected. Koenig is shown in an updated photo here and Cardinal Mindszenty is shown in 1956 photo. (UPI TELEPHOTOS).

Mansfield Prods Senate on Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says maneuvering by congressmen trying to prevent a vote on increasing their own pay "makes us look bad."

"The sooner we face up to it, the better it will be for all concerned," Mansfield said in an interview. He restated his support for the increase from $30,000 a year to $42,500 for members of Congress.

The Montana Democrat declined to predict what will happen Tuesday when the Senate takes up a resolution by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., to block the pay package.

Under a law passed in 1967, pay increases proposed last month by former President Lyndon B. Johnson will take effect Feb. 14 unless either the House or Senate rejects them.

With Congress set to adjourn at the end of this week for 10 days so Republicans can make their traditional round of Lincoln's Birthday dinner speeches, time is running out for opponents of the pay boosts.

There is little business scheduled in the House this week, and leaders may have difficulty raising the necessary quorum of 218 members. However, Chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss., is hoping to push a resolution through his Rules Committee to force the issue onto the floor. His chances are considered dim.

In the Senate, Mansfield and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen agreed to Williams' demand that there be a vote on the pay increase.

But sources immediately revealed a move might be made to challenge the Williams resolution on grounds a bill is needed to stop the pay boost.

"It would make us look bad" to use a parliamentary device to block a vote on the Williams resolution, Mansfield said.

The possibility remains the vote will not come directly on Williams' disapproval resolution but on a motion to table, and thus kill, the Delaware Republican's move.

That might suit both sides, since Williams says his main concern is to get a recorded vote. Opponents of his resolution could say afterwards they were voting on a tabling motion for parliamentary reasons even though the effect of their vote would be to approve the pay increase.

The pay package also raises salaries of Cabinet members from $35,000 to $60,000 with corresponding increases for federal judges who now make from $30,000 for district judges to $40,000 for the chief justice.

Now for the Shaw Alternates

The trial entered its 12th day with 823 persons having been questioned in an effort to pick 14 men. The two alternate jurors should be chosen in a day, since each side has only one peremptory challenge per juror.

That would leave Tuesday for a hearing on a preliminary motion and bring the opening statements and start of testimony Wednesday.

It has been nearly two years since Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison announced his staff had "solved" the assassination of President Kennedy.

Shaw, 55, a retired businessman, is charged with criminal conspiracy to murder, but not the actual murder of Kennedy.

The other two conspirators named in the indictment are dead—Lee Harvey Oswald and David William Ferrie.

jury of 10 husbands and two bachelors will try Clay L. Shaw, a bachelor, on charges of conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

The panel was completed late Saturday. Today Criminal Dist. Court Judge Edward A. Hagger, Jr. called 150 more prospective jurors from the jury commissioner's reserve supply for questioning by the state and defense to get two alternate jurors.

1968 Report Submitted For PE Fire Dept.

PORT EWEN — The annual report for 1968 of Port Ewen Fire Department notes a total of 46 alarms answered and 24 training sessions held for a total of 72 hours.

The report filed by Chief Wesley D. Clark lists the breakdown as follows: 6 dwellings, 7 vehicles, 7 brush, 2 dump, 1 rescue, 11 service calls and 12 false alarms. The number of alarms was the same as last year. False alarms calls increased by five and service calls by 8.

Inspections

The officers and men made inspections of Port Ewen School, Port Ewen Methodist Church and classrooms, and a New Year's Eve inspection at the Capri restaurant, Tropical Inn and Hidden Harbor Yacht Club. The volunteers also made a tour of Hercules Inc. plant at Port Ewen.

The department's equipment covered a total of 899 miles during the year. One of the 24 training sessions included a discussion on the natural gas and electric lines and substations in the district by Perry Quick and Frank Vaselewski, representative of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp.

The department participated in parades on Memorial Day in Port Ewen, in the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's parade in New Paltz, the firemen's inspection parade in Ellenville and Loyalty Day parade in Kingston.

On June 2, Chief Clark, Assistant Chief Clark Maines and Lt. Frank White attended a liquid petroleum gas school held at Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh.

Aug. 10, a Mutual Aid drill was held at the old Crystal Farm on New Salem Road. A small bungalow was burned down by the department, assisted by the Connelly, Esopus, Rifton and St. Remy.

Named Directors

James Fairley of Esopus, Lawrence Zacher of Rifton and Mrs. James M. Lynady of Kingston have been named to the board of directors of the Association for Retarded Children, president Edward R. Crosby announced recently.

Fire Departments. On Oct. 6 the department responded to a Mutual Aid drill in Connelly with Esopus, Rifton and St. Remy departments.

Chief Clark reported the volunteers are now installing a heat detection system in the firehouse. This system will blow the fire siren in case of a fire in the building. A new display cabinet was installed in the meeting room, donated to the department by Colony Liquor Distributors Inc., through the efforts of the auxiliary.

The fire commissioners have ordered a new Chevrolet step-in van to replace the utility truck. Delivery is expected in February.

Elections

Elections at the annual meeting were as follows:

Frank Chaffee, president; John Benton, vice-president; Roger Elmendorf, recording secretary; Harry Van Ormer, financial secretary; Robert Henry, treasurer; the Rev. Daniel Ogden, chaplain and Herbert Klippel, trustee.

Line officers elected were Wesley D. Clark, chief; James Ellsworth, deputy chief; Clark Mains, first assistant; Robert Emberson, second assistant.

Two Different Languages

It took ten weeks of procedural wrangling to decide on the 26-foot green baize-covered round table at which finally the diplomatic search for peace in Vietnam began. But unless President Nixon orders something more effective than argument, it may take many more weeks to overcome the new hurdle to peace, the two languages the negotiators are speaking.

We do not mean the Vietnamese, English and French languages of the negotiators. Most around the huge table understand two and some all three of these languages, and interpreters can fill in any voids. What we mean is the language of substance. The United States and its ally, South Vietnam, are talking at cross purposes with the North Vietnam and its ally, the Viet Cong.

For instance, when Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said: "A good way to begin our task would be to deal with concrete proposals. The search for peace can begin in the DMZ. We believe that the demilitarized status of the zone should be restored immediately."

For North Vietnam, Xuan Thu replied obliquely: "The U.S. aggression is precisely the deep root and immediate cause of the present serious situation. Therefore, any correct political solution must be based on the cessation of the U.S. aggression and the respect of the Vietnamese people's fundamental national rights."

No admission of North Vietnam's aggression, or even of her presence in South Vietnam. The Viet Cong were even more outspoken. Said Tran Bhu Kiem, the rebel leader, "The U.S. has rigged up in South Vietnam a most ferocious and bloodthirsty puppet administration, etc. etc."

While Pham Dang Lam for South Vietnam said, "More than anyone else, we aspire to a prompt return to peace in our beloved fatherland." No abuse, no rancor, no recrimination.

If these talks are to be anything more than exercises in meaningless rhetoric, then President Nixon must find a way to break through to the substance of peace, just as President Eisenhower did in bringing the Korean talks to a close by threatening otherwise to use nuclear weapons.

Attainable Housing

Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney outlined the Administration's housing goals, immediately after his announcement of the 7½ per cent interest rates, the highest ever, on government-insured mortgages.

First, Romney said that the 500,000 units recommended by former President Johnson for next year is unattainable. He said the figure is "above and beyond the resources and funding available," though he would not quarrel with the goals.

To get anything near the needed housing, Romney said we would have to reverse the long-time trend of higher and higher costs. He warned that inflation hits hardest at those least able to afford good housing. Higher interest rates will mean fewer homes built, he admitted, but the alternative prospect was that the whole market for housing would have dried up. He hopes the high interest rates will be a temporary expedient, to get housing rolling.

Lenders had been demanding and getting as much as 8 per cent in some sections of the country by various means and Romney's action should stabilize the market. As Senator John Sparkman, Alabama Democrat, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee said, "Increasing the interest ceiling was the only way to get housing built in sufficient quantity."

U.S. Government Leaders Place Emphasis on Prayer

WASHINGTON — For more than two hours Thursday morning, most of the persons who head up the government of the United States engaged in prayer. First there was a congressional prayer breakfast, at which members of both houses and their friends from different parts of the country were present. Then came the annual presidential prayer breakfast, attended by the cabinet and members of Congress as well as the governors of several states.

President and Mrs. Nixon and Vice President and Mrs. Agnew were guests at both functions. It was the largest number to participate in an annual presidential prayer breakfast, which now have been held for 17 years.

President Nixon, in his talk, said that recently he had studied the inaugural addresses of all preceding presidents, and he pointed out that one theme was common to every one of them. "Recognized the spiritual heritage of this nation and asked for the blessing of God on this country — in not only its affairs at home, but its affairs abroad."

Mr. Nixon said he also found one theme running through the majority of the letters he had been able to read among the thousands which have come to the White House from all over the country since Inauguration Day. He commented: "In these days in which religion is not supposed to be fashionable in many quarters, in these days when skepticism and even agnosticism seems to be on the upturn, over half of all the letters that have come into our office have indicated that people of all faiths and of all nations in a very simple way are saying: We are praying for you, Mr. President. We are praying for this country. We are praying for the leadership that this nation may be able to provide for this world."

"As I read those letters, I realized how great was my responsibility and how great was your responsibility, those who share with me these days in government. I realize that people whom we will never meet have this deep religious faith which has run through the destiny of this land from the beginning."

"I am proud to stand here today in the presence of those who, by your being here, indicate that you have not lost faith in this nation. You have not lost faith in the religious background that has sustained us."

"As a matter of fact, we are entering a period when, sustained by that faith, we will be able to meet the challenge which is ours—a challenge which comes to very few people in the history of man. It is America's now. Whether we succeed or fail will depend on whether we survive on this world."

"We will meet the challenge... because we will be sustained and inspired by the prayers of millions of people across this world."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

There is a lull in the race revolution. From the hot embers will come tall flames of violence again and again, but this hour is cool and quiet. Ears, black and white, are bent toward Washington to listen to the new tom-tom. The message will be the same as that tapped out by Lyndon Johnson and his predecessor, John F. Kennedy. Washington will support civil rights. Period.

The revolution has endured for 15 years come May, because it was in May 1954 that the Supreme Court ruled that "separate but equal" facilities in schools, in buses, in restaurants was not enough. It wasn't much of a revolution in the Eisenhower Administration because Ike used Federal power with great reluctance.

The Kennedys assumed the opposite tack. They looked for trouble and unearthed it. They made famous names like Birmingham, Evers, freedom marches, university confrontations and vote registration. The white South played into the political hands of the Kennedys by saying: "All right. We'll obey the law but don't hurry us."

Kennedy was killed and along came a tall stooped Texan whose grandfather fought in the Confederate Army. No one will ever know why Lyndon Johnson's personal feelings, but I can tell you that, as a Chief Executive, he fought for civil rights all the way. He made high-ranking token appointments of Negroes. It was a step toward equality, but it did not impress the 22,000,000 blacks who were struggling for economic equality.

There is no panacea for the ghetto. The whites speak of urban renewal as though they planned a new headstone on an old grave. The blacks wear the ghettos as their personal purple heart; some of the arrogant leaders would be left without an issue if the ghetto disappeared.

The destructive element in the revolution is that the Negro had to be singled out as a deprived citizen. The blacks I've heard do not want to be special; they want equality without regard to pigment. Nor is it equitable to condemn the race for fires, shooting and looting. The booze bravery of the few is chalked up against all, and no one counts the Negro families who hid while the shooting and burning were in progress.

The Congress cannot legislate brotherhood. It cannot order me to embrace a man of another color or nationality. I pick my friends. With one exception, they are white. The one person, black, whom we Bishops regard as a family friend is Miss Millicent Harrison, but we picked her without regard to race. She used the same set of scales in judging us.

I have interviewed students at Negro colleges and I have yet to hear one say that equality—true equality—can be accomplished in less than two generations. A few shrug and say: "A hundred years." This country cannot afford a century of racial revolution. Neither can the blacks, who number one in ten of our population. The longer it lasts, the less they stand to win.

The government could duplicate the peace talks of Paris, but there is no responsible leadership. Some speak of a national holiday in honor of the Rev. Martin Luther King, but they do not remember that King lost his follow-

Vice President Agnew read a passage from the Bible. There were greetings from the Senate prayer breakfast group by Senator John Stennis of Mississippi, and from the House prayer breakfast group by Representative Graham Purcell of Texas, as well as prayers by Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine and Senator Mark Hatfield of Oregon.

Dr. Billy Graham, the evangelist, delivered a special message in which he emphasized that, while there is a tendency to be pessimistic about the future, America has dealt with difficult times before. He said:

"I think it is time that we take our eyes off our shortcomings, and off our failures and off our selves, and put them on the Christ who said, 'You must be born again.'"

Dr. Graham called for a new birth of spirit, a new birth of the heart, and a religious awakening throughout America. It was a thrilling occasion. Not only were portions of the event televised in this country, but it was broadcast overseas to the Armed Forces of the United States in Vietnam and elsewhere. This emphasis on prayer is characteristic of the feeling of dedication that prevails in government nowadays, as the challenges of the era confront members of both parties with a responsibility of unprecedented proportions. Pan Am Lobbied Nixon Into Canceling Pacific Air Route

WASHINGTON — With some of the slickest lobbying in the history of back-stage politics, Pan American Airways not only persuaded President Nixon to cancel the new air routes across the Pacific but conveyed the impression that he was overruling a political decision by his predecessor.

Exactly the opposite was true. Ex-President Johnson scrupulously refused to play politics in awarding the trans-Pacific routes, whereas Nixon's decision was dictated entirely by politics.

Here is the amazing story, carefully documented, of the profits and politics behind the trans-Pacific case:

For more than a decade, the Civil Aeronautics Board has sought to provide more competition and better service for air travelers in the Pacific. This has been bitterly resisted by Pan Am, which doesn't want to share its lucrative Pacific business with more competitors. A trans-Pacific air route, it's estimated, is worth $50 million a year.

The CAB eventually submitted its trans-Pacific recommendations to former President Eisenhower who, on the eve of his retirement, rejected them outright and instructed the CAB to review the entire matter. This decision has already given Pan Am eight more years of limited competition, worth millions to the stockholders.

After exhaustive hearings, the CAB came back to the White House with new recommendations — this time on the eve of President Johnson's retirement. Pan Am's President Najeeb Halaby, LBJ's former Federal Aviation Administrator, immediately began campaigning in the White House basement.

Day after day, he slipped into the White House through the basement door to lobby with presidential aides. He urged them to hand down a decision keeping rival airlines out of the Pacific or, alternatively, to buck the decision to the Nixon administration.

Halaby also made repeated calls on top officials of the State, Defense and Transportation Departments to enlist their support. Two of the most influential lawyers in Washington, Tommy "The Cork" Corcoran and James Rowe, were also retained by Pan Am to pull strings inside the Johnson administration.

When LBJ decided against Pan Am, the airline began spreading stories that he had jimmied the CAB recommendations for political purposes. This was pure hogwash.

Johnson, for example, was closer to American Airlines than to any other carrier. His close friend and Secretary of Commerce, C. R. Smith, was the former president of American Airlines. Another intimate friend and former aide, Warren Woodward, is a vice president. Two other members of Johnson's inner circle, Horace Busby and Jake Jacobson, are also on American's payroll.

Yet LBJ overruled a CAB American Airlines fly to Japan via Hawaii. He acted upon the unanimous, non-political advice of Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford and Secretary of Transportation Alan Boyd that the recommended route would upset delicate relations with Japan. For Japan Air Lines already in shaky financial condition, couldn't stand the competition.

Another airline with connections inside the Johnson administration was Eastern, which also wanted a trans-Pacific route. Eastern's Washington representative, Craig Raupe, had raised campaign funds for Hubert Humphrey and worked hard to elect him President.

In gratitude, Humphrey personally intervened at the White House to seek a route for Eastern. But President Johnson refused to be swayed. He completely ignored personal and political pressures in making his final decision.

Rather than defer the decision to his successor, he also thought he was doing Nixon a favor by deciding the trans-Pacific case and diverting the fire from the new President.

Power of Pan Am
However, Johnson underestimated the political power of Pan Am, whose top brass had contributed heavily to the Nixon campaign. Even before Nixon was settled in the White House Pan Am brought pressure on him to reverse Johnson's decision.

From another quarter, New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller also urged Nixon to overrule Johnson. It is worth mentioning that Rockefeller's brother Laurence is the largest single stockholder in Eastern Airlines.

Thus Nixon, as his first major presidential decision, submitted to political pressure and threw out the CAB-recommended trans-Pacific routes — a disturbing omen of things to come.

Note: President Nixon explained that he acted in response to letters from the chairmen of the Senate and House Foreign Relations Committees. The truth is that the letters were strictly routine requests for a review of the case, the sort of letters that members of Congress write every day to placate constituents and contributors.

Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Bill Fulbright, for example, was appalled when he learned that the President had cited his innocuous letter as a reason for cancelling the air routes. Afterward, so many airline representatives thronged into his office that he left town to escape them.

"I wish I had never heard of this case," he told subordinates.

Viet, Crime, Race Relations Inflation, Top U.S. Concern

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J., Jan. 29 — If President Nixon's "Listening Post" project were in full operation across the nation at this time, he would discover that the top worries of the man-in-the-street fall in this order: (1) the Vietnam war, (2) crime and lawlessness, (3) race relations, and (4) the upward spiral in prices.

Here is the complete list of priorities that the public would establish for the new administration, based on interviews with 1535 adults who were asked: What do you think is the most important problem facing this country today?

Top Problem Facing Nation Today?

Vietnam war	40
Crime and lawlessness (including riots, looting, juvenile delinquency)	17
Race relations	16
Inflation, high cost of living	9
College demonstrations	4
Poverty	3
Unrest in nation	3
Other problems	16
Don't know, no answer	2
TOTAL	*110

*Total adds to more than 100 per cent since some persons gave more than one answer.

Many other problems were named including relations with Russia, the U.S. image abroad, slums, education, unemployment, welfare, "big government," drugs, farm problems, the "power" of labor unions, the "population explosion."

1969 Compared With 1953
The magnitude and the complexity of the task facing Nixon as President are seen in a comparison of the public's top worries today with those recorded in a parallel survey, taken at the beginning of President Dwight Eisenhower's first term in 1953.

The top problem 16 years ago was also a war in Asia (the Korean war), while the problem mentioned next most often (but by far fewer) was inflation. But President Nixon today not only must deal with a war in Asia and inflation, but with two other major public concerns as well — crime and race relations.

Typical Views

Here are the kinds of comments heard by Gallup interviewers who worked in over 300 localities during the first two weeks of January:

"Our biggest problem? That's easy," said a 39-year old farmer from California. "the Vietnam war — getting our boys back. What's more important than this?"

A 74-year old Negro resident of Center Point, Ark., said: "The big job this country has is to get peace between both colors like we used to have."

A different attitude is apparent in the remarks of a young midwestern wife of an air conditioner repairman: "I don't like the way Negroes are trying to take away the good jobs and to run everything."

A railroad clerk, a 68-year old man from St. Petersburg, Fla., was worried chiefly about inflation: "The high cost of living is the biggest problem — prices keep going up and up. Nothing ever comes down."

A 28-year old laborer from Omaha complained: "It makes me sick the way the college kids are acting and rioting and creating so much disturbance — they have no respect for law and order."

The 39-year-old mother of eight, a restaurant dishwasher, said: "It's hard for us colored people to get a decent job." A 35-year-old tree surgeon's wife remarked: "Some people get welfare and don't need it — and others can't get welfare and do need it."

TOP WORRIES

The three problems of greatest concern to the American people at this time — the war, crime and race relations — are ones that became major public worries in a 5-year period, — between January, 1963 and January 1969.

Race relations emerged as a top worry of Americans in the early summer of 1963. From that time on, particularly during the "long hot summers," race relations figured prominently as a top domestic problem.

Worry over crime and lawlessness came to the forefront in early 1965, and was the top domestic worry of the nation during the latter part of 1968.

The war in Southeast Asia has dominated all other worries of the public for the last three and one-half years, with the exception of a brief period in 1968 when the problem of race relations was cited as frequently.

R.D. 5, Box 73
Kingston, N. Y.
Editor, The Freeman:

I sincerely hope the new administration realizes the need to reverse recent Supreme Court decisions and to repeal recent "laws" made under the guise of civil rights. The Communist have stated "the Americans will be fed small doses of Socialism until they wake up to find themselves living under Communism."

Norman, leader of American Socialist Party, said "Americans may never have accepted Socialism under the banner of a political party but it has gradually accepted the party's program."

Now, under the cover of "civil rights" laws these above statements have come true. The government has complete control of our lives from the cradle to the grave — including control of our private homes. Still the people say "it can't happen here" and through fear of reprisals, or fear of being smeared, or just a plain couldn't care less attitude, they will not speak out, or take time to write their representatives in protest.

I think it's time we replaced our national emblem of a proud eagle with a plucked chicken.

Ex-Cons Organization Patterned After AA

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — It's Smith, a former prison worker, who has organized a group of ex-convicts in Toledo. The blackness of Detroit as County Commons Pleas Avenue is pierced by lights streaming from a corner office building where men with criminal records are meeting quietly. The men are not plotting heinous acts, however.

This is the start of what, it is hoped, will become an "Ex-Cons Anon" organization here, an organization patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous in which men in trouble try to help one another.

These are young men who are on probation. Some are second and third-time offenders. Half the group has served time.

Meetings have been held Monday nights in NIFTI (Neighborhood Improvement Foundation of Toledo Inc.) headquarters. Earlier sessions were held in North Toledo.

Leaders of the program to help convicted men start life anew are Nelson Grace, probation officer, and James A. Smith, director of North Toledo Community House.

Both give their time to the group therapy program, which was conceived in March during a meeting on rehabilitation programs for probationers between Smith proposed a modified version of social values classes he had taught in penal institutions. The program uses group dynamics, contacts with employers and other interested citizens, and elementary criminology as tools to assist the probationer or parolee.

The first class began in April with 15 enrolled. Attendance averaged 50 per cent. A new session starts in February.

"We wanted 250 fellows. We have reached 30," Smith reports.

Silently the men gather. They come one by one from the still of the night. They sit watchfully.

All the men are young. They are sober-faced, however, as if old before their time. Only once or twice during the whole meeting do any smile.

Many wear wedding rings. One says he is unemployed.

Another, a 22-year-old with a breaking-and-entry record reports proudly that his 1964 automobile is paid for.

A square-jawed, serious-faced young man nervously twists a wedding ring and asks for guidance because his application for a car salesman's license has been rejected and no reason given.

An impeccably groomed youth asks about opportunities for advancement on the job.

The men are alert as Don Brondes, an auto dealer, conducts a mock interview to show the men how to approach prospective employers.

"Suppose a what is on their minds. They discuss their stays in jail, how they feel about confinement, whether it helped, who has been unable to find work asked.

Brondes counseled, "Tell it the way it is. We're not too much concerned about what you did in the past. We're concerned about what you can do in the future."

The first of six meetings is a get-acquainted session in which Smith and the probation officer discuss adjustments to probation, seek out problems the men face with their families or finances and let it be known they have a friend to call at any time for help.

Social values are discussed at the second meeting. "These men look upon society as a ugly thing. We try to get them to respect other people, other people's property, their lives," Grace said.

"We try to help them develop wholesome lives and home interests. They are reluctant to accept the fact that anybody wants to help them. Some live in deplorable conditions.

The third session consists of group counseling. At this time, probationers speak up and say what is on their minds.

"They discuss their stays in jail, how they feel about confinement, whether it helped, who has been unable to find work asked.

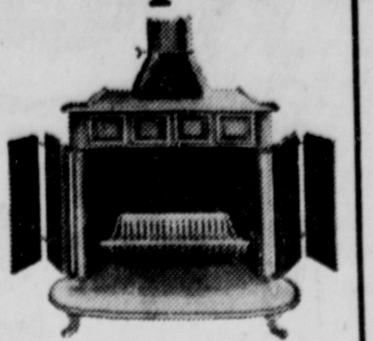

Brondes counseled, "Tell it the way it is. We're not too much concerned about what you did in the past. We're concerned about what you can do in the future."

The job-interview session is an important part of the program because many of the men have never been interviewed personally.

They have to learn how to show respect for the man at the desk, and are given such tips as not to smoke unless the interviewer suggests it and to look at the interviewer rather than out the window or down at the desk.

"These men have their shortcomings or hangups, not because they are stubborn or in a different, but because they don't know better," Grace explained.

High Allowance Benefits Are Given Congressmen

By NORMAN KEMPSTER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—That $12,500-a-year pay raise which senators and representatives will get in less than three weeks is little more than pocket money compared with the fringe benefits congressmen enjoy.

Senators are entitled to allowances for staff, equipment and expenses ranging up to almost $400,000. Members of the House can draw well over $100,000 in allowances and benefits.

On top of that, all members of Congress may subscribe to generous retirement and life and health insurance benefits.

A lawmaker must pay income taxes on his basic salary. But most of his expense allowances are tax free.

Offices — congressmen and senators are provided suites of rooms in one of the congressional office buildings, completely equipped with whatever furnishings they want. They even get an allowance for framing pictures, and the men pay only 75 cents for a haircut on House or $1 in the Senate barber shops.

Salaries — by far the largest allowance covers the salaries of members of the congressman's staff.

In the Senate, the staff allowances vary depending upon the size of the state. The high is $358,200 annually for senators from California and New York. The low is $210,940 for lawmakers from states with fewer than 3 million population.

A House member's total staff payroll is about $100,000. It varies by a few thousand dollars depending upon the size of his district and the number of employees he hires.

In both houses, the lawmaker selects his own staff and decides how to divide the available money. Kickbacks are illegal, so none of the money can go into the congressman's personal pocket. But staff positions can — and often do — go to political allies.

In times past, members of Congress frequently could raise their family standard of living by placing their wives, children, in-laws and other relatives on the payroll. This no longer is possible. However, any member who had a relative on the payroll before the prohibition was adopted could continue the practice.

Stationary — each member of each house is entitled to $3,000 worth of stationary each year. In the House, the member may either take the cash or draw materials from an office supply room at less than retail cost. In the Senate, the member must take the supplies; he cannot get cash. The Capitol stationary stores sell at cut-rate.

Travel — each senator is entitled to seven round trips a year from his home to Washington. A senator may collect only the actual cost of the trip by whatever means he chooses to travel. In addition, he can charge the taxpayers the

State Police Report: More DWI Arrests

"The significance of this effort lies not alone in the sharp rise in statistics, but in the undetermined number of lives that may have been saved as a result of this activity." That was the comment of Supt. William E. Kirwan, of the New York State Police, in reporting that arrests by the department for driving while intoxicated rose 41 per cent last year in comparison with arrests for this offense in 1967. Kirwan attributed the increase largely to the acquisition by the State Police early last year of 24 breath-taking instruments which have greatly facilitated the problem of obtaining evidence in support of charges of driving while intoxicated were placed against 4,899 motorists in 1968, compared with 3,486 in the preceding year. In reporting the arrest, Kirwan also released the results of tests made to determine the presence of alcohol in 312 drivers or pedestrians involved in fatal accidents last year. These showed 210 persons, or 67 per cent of those tested, had consumed sufficient alcohol to have had a demonstrable effect on their driving or walking ability. The State Police investigated 137, or 43.9 per cent, had an is prima facie evidence of alcoholic content in their blood driving while intoxicated. Kirwan cautioned that the large sampling, the tests can be interpreted, "as reaffirming the gravity of the problem of alcohol content in the blood and pedestrians should not be interpreted as applying to all the drinking driver and the fatal accidents since it was not possible to conduct tests on all persons involved. However, because of the importance of using all means available to reduce it through education and enforcement."

TV INTERVIEW — Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of strife-ridden San Francisco State College, said there was a "reasonable chance" that his school would open for the second semester and complete the academic year. Hayakawa, appearing in a television interview (Face the Nation-CBS), said the aim of some of the most militant Black leaders was still "to close the place down." (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Feb. 3, 1949 — Woodstock Riding Club took title to a 16-acre tract of land in the Ohayo Mountains for a show-grounds area.

Local police obtained information on a series of robberies in the city from two youths being held by a Pennsylvania law enforcement agency.

Feb. 3, 1959 — The Kingston Chamber of Commerce went on record this day as being opposed to the proposed plan of state withholding tax. They urged citizens to voice their feelings to Albany on the matter that they said would add a nightmare of paper work for small businessmen.

More than 1,000 persons attended a March of Dimes program with 15 acts and an Air Force band in the Auditorium, reported as being one of the best programs given in the city.

UCBPW Will Have Indian Guest on Feb. 11 Meeting

Usha Narayanasamy, wife of an IBM electrical engineer and mother of two girls, will be a guest speaker Tuesday, Feb. 11 for the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club. She will take place at 6:30 p. m. in the Kirkland Hotel.

The guest, presented by the club's World Affairs Committee, Mrs. Dorothy A. Narell, chairman, is a resident of Wappingers Falls, a volunteer worker at St. Francis Hospital and has greatly added to the cultural diversity of Poughkeepsie. She will be accompanied by Miss Marilyn Michaels, public relations director for the hospital.

Usha was born in the southern part of India in Madras City, Madras State and majored in Home Economics at the University of Madras. When she arrived in Poughkeepsie in 1963, there were only seven or eight Indian families located in the city. Today more than 200 families live and work in the community.

Life in a thriving American city is very different than life in India. "The pace is so much faster here, I seem to be rushing all the time."

Usha sees a vast difference in culture also. "In India, that is the part I come from, husbands are still chosen by their parents."

"My parents selected my husband and my sister's before me and girls never date until they are engaged. Of course, I left India 10 years ago and many changes have taken place. In big cities, there are less restrictions."

Her parents still live in India, her father is managing director of an insurance company in Bombay.

"Parents are much stricter in India — there were few toys, no television and no allowances. And girls only went out if they were chaperoned."

In her volunteer work at St. Francis, Usha wears a pink smock over the traditional and beautiful Sari and distributes little hand puppets to incoming pediatric patients to help alleviate the anxiety of being away from home.

Governor Marks February Heart Month in New York

The month of February has been designated Heart Month in a special proclamation issued recently by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller. Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh, president of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, Inc. revealed this fact today as the group launched its annual Heart Fund Campaign.

The Governor said in his proclamation that "unprecedented advances have been made in the fight against heart disease." He also pointed out that heart transplant operations "are now treated as routine news" and the death rate from hypertensive heart disease is at an all time low.

Despite these advances, however, he stated that last year heart disease claimed "more than 81,000 lives" making it "the number one cause of death in New York State."

"We are indeed grateful to the Governor," Dr. Feldshuh said, "for not only pointing out the advances that have been made but also for reminding us of the work that remains to be done."

In his proclamation the Governor also noted that many chapters of the New York State Heart Assembly are cooperating with the State Department of Health in studying the effectiveness of hospital coronary care units, which provide specialized treatment for heart attack victims.

Dr. Feldshuh said that he hoped the Governor's words would help impress on everyone the vital importance of the Heart Fund Campaign which the Mid-Hudson Heart Association is conducting in February.

In addition to supporting heart research, the funds raised during February are also used to maintain local community service programs such as the Rheumatic Fever Control Program; Diagnostic Services; Closed Chest Resuscitation Training; Nurse Institute; and Physicians Educational Program.

This year the Heart Fund Campaign will reach a climax on Heart Sunday which is being observed on February 16. From February 9 to 16 volunteers will call on their neighbors to accept voluntary contributions to the Heart Fund Campaign.

Stabbed, Beaten Body of Man Found on Ice

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The stabbed and beaten body of a 62-year-old man who disappeared Jan. 24 was found Sunday floating on a slab of ice in the Genesee River.

The body of Joseph Levinson, a collection agent for a city furniture firm, was found by two boys who were walking along the bank of the river.

Police said Levinson had been stabbed about 30 times in the back and side and suffered about 30 blows on the head with a sharp instrument.

They said Levinson, a widower, also suffered several "defense wounds" of the hands and had several fingers broken, apparently in a struggle with his attacker.

"Whoever did it was awfully mad at him (Levinson), and robbery may have been a second thought," said Det. Lt. Anthony Fantigrossi of the Rochester police.

Police said it was believed Levinson had about $700 on him when he disappeared after making a collection at a home.

They said the only thing of value found on the body was Levinson's wrist watch.

He lived at 99 Westland Ave. in suburban Brighton.

The series will be a regular feature on The Freeman comic pages after its initial appearance a week from today. The mysterious "Valerie" and daredevil sports enthusiast Bob Digby start Juliet off on a new and intriguing adventure.

Began in 1952

Juliet started out in the winter of 1952-53 as the creation of Stan Drake and has since gained international fame as a member of the King Features Syndicate.

Drake, a native of Brooklyn, had an early interest in art and studied for two seasons at the famed Art Students League of New York with William Mc-

Mother's March In February

The annual doorbell-ringing campaign by woman volunteers to raise money for the March of Dimes will take place Saturday, Feb. 22 and Sunday, Feb. 23, in Kingston according to Mrs. Lincoln Crosby, chairman and Mrs. John Devine, co-chairman.

This drive is usually held in January. However, because of the sickness of many of the woman volunteers and the inclement weather; it is being held on these dates as not to interfere with the Heart Fund Drive.

"We need more volunteers," Mrs. Crosby explained. "The need is urgent if the City of Kingston is to match the goals achieved in other years."

Since 1958, the March of Dimes has led the way in overcoming an age-old fear of every mother. During those years, it has established more than 100 birth defects centers that offer help to present victims of birth defects and hope, through research, to unborn generations.

"RH blood disease, one infant killer, can now be prevented by a newly developed vaccine. A vaccine should also be available soon to prevent German Measles, which is a major cause of birth defects," Mrs. Crosby explained. "But the real work is only beginning and must be vigorously supported by each of us — through volunteer time and generous contributions."

"Surely, as mothers," Mrs. Crosby said, "each of us can afford the effort of giving up time on one day of the year to ring doorbells in our neighborhoods."

Starts Feb. 10

Freeman Adds Juliet Jones Cartoon

Nulty and George Bridgeman, Jones, Drake achieved somewhat of a happy marriage between his old love of drama and for a time he toyed with the idea of acting as a career.

Art of a sort finally won out and he illustrated pulp magazines prior to a stint as camouflage artist for the U.S. Army in the Pacific during World War II.

After the war Drake worked for awhile with an advertising agency and then in 1949 opened his own studio where he did commercial art work for agencies.

With the creation of Juliet Jones, Drake achieved somewhat of a happy marriage between his old love of drama and for a time he toyed with the idea of acting as a career.

Dramatic Story

All the elements of drama are the underlying theme of the continuing story of Juliet and her family. All of Juliet's adventures eventually come back to her widower father and fiery young sister Eve for whom she has a deep sense of loyalty and duty.

In the world Juliet Jones is an attractive, kind intelligent woman, happy to share the destinies of her father and her sister. The deeper side of her nature is revealed as she becomes involved with a search for her own happiness.

The Heart of Juliet Jones is a different kind of story strip which has won wide acclaim and is sure to intrigue Freeman readers.

Continue Search For Two Suspects

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Police continued their search Sunday for two more suspects in the death of a 62-year-old salesman whose trussed body was found Friday by a gully behind a garage here.

Richard A. McIntyre, 23, and Patrick Provost, 17, both of Syracuse, were arrested Saturday and held for arraignment today on charges of murder and robbery in connection with the death of Frank W. Lewis of Amherst, a Buffalo suburb.

Lewis' body was discovered by two hunters and a 14-year-old boy. An autopsy Saturday did not find any cause of death and further tests were scheduled for Monday.

The victim's rented automobile was stolen and had not yet been recovered, police said.

Advice Given To City Aged On Land Taxes

The Kingston assessor today offered advice to those senior citizens in the city seeking property tax exemptions.

Matthias Richardson, the assessor said:

"In the absence of physical disability, each taxpayer seeking the partial reduction should apply to the Assessor's Office in person.

"When filing an application for partial tax exemption for real property of aged persons, the applicants should produce their birth certificate, affidavit of age from Social Security, hospital birth record, immigration records, insurance records, census records, passport, military record or any other reliable records, which show the age of the applicant.

"Once proof of age is verified, no proof will be required in subsequent years, unless specifically requested. Furthermore, a new application must be filed each year. This is necessary because conditions upon which the exemption depends each year.

"An applicant must prove ownership and it may consist of a certified copy of a deed, new application must be filed with letters of administration, or any other instrument by which applicant became owner of the property. Satisfactory proof of ownership must also show that title has been vested for at least five years prior to filing the application and a completed application must be filed with the Assessor's Office by May 1, 1969. If all the information requested is completely in order, it will be computed for a reduction for the 1970 Tax Roll.

"There have been several applications that it became necessary to return, when the property record card indicated joint ownership of husband and wife, and one of the owners died, but no record of change was ever recorded at the assessor's office. The proper change should be made before applications can be accepted," Richardson said.

Troopers said the automobile was owned by the Renaissance Institute of this community.

Arraigned before Justice Herbert Weinsoff, the defendants were ordered held in $2,500 bail each. In lieu of bail they were committed to the county jail pending a preliminary hearing on Thursday, Feb. 6.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened mixed today in moderate trading.

The news background was mixed, but much belief exists that the rise in steel ordering last week—the biggest jump since the middle of last year—would be a help to the bulls. However, word that major banks were tightening their credit policies and concern over the Middle East were expected to restrict demand.

Shortly after the opening the UPI stock market indicator showed a gain of 0.09 per cent on 250 issues traded. There were 112 advances and 86 declines.

Electronics were mixed. Motors worked higher, the oils moved in both directions.

RCA rose 1/4 among the electronics, while Litton picked up 1/2. Burroughs fell 1/4. General Electric 1/2.

Ford added 1/4 in its group, with Chrysler up a similar amount. General Motors moved up 1/2.

Occidental climbed 1/4 in the oils. Atlantic Richfield rose 1/2. Pennzoil dipped 1/4. Jersey Standard was unchanged. Gulf, trading ex-dividend, fell 1/4.

In the steels, U.S. Steel slid 1/4, but Inland showed a gain of 1/2. Bethlehem picked up 1/4. Lykes Corp. dipped 1/4. Caterpillar Tractor 1/4.

Police Seek Auto, Suspects In Death of Pool Salesman

CLAY, N.Y. (UPI)—Police were searching for a rented car bearing Erie County license plates and two suspects wanted in the death of a swimming pool salesman from this Syracuse suburb.

Patrick R. Provost, 17, and Richard A. McIntyre, 23, both of Syracuse, were to be arraigned today following their weekend arrest on murder and robbery charges.

William Green, 19, and William Kaulback, 28, both also of Syracuse, were still being sought. Police thought they had the car the victim had rented. Provost and McIntyre were charged with killing Frank W. Lewis, 62, of the Erie County community of Snyder on Thursday morning. Lewis's body, with his hands bound behind his back with electrician's tape, was discovered propped in a sitting position against a tree Friday.

The Onondaga County sheriff's department said no official cause of death had been determined, pending the outcome of laboratory tests.

A spokesman for the sheriff said Lewis met a man Wednesday evening in Syracuse and they went out on the town together. The spokesman said they then met three other men.

Skindivers Search for Missing Girl

ALLENSTOWN, N.H. (UPI)—Four skindivers plumbed the cold waters of the Suncook River today, seeking traces of 11-year-old Debra Lee Horn, who has been missing from her home since Wednesday.

State and local police in light planes and helicopters and ground search parties combed the woods around the Horn home and nearby Brook State Park.

"We're backtracking over some of the places we've covered," said Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry F. Spaloss, who is in charge of the search. "We feel it's reasonable feasible to continue the search."

Rewards totaling $10,800 were offered over the weekend by friends. The largest sum, $10,000, believed to have been put up by a Boston man who wished to remain anonymous. He said it was "a gift of love."

Debra, a pixie-haired, 50-pound youngster, slipped on ice on her front walk as she started off to school last Wednesday, hurting her neck.

Her parents went to work and her brother, Kenneth, left for school, while Debra rested on a living room couch.

When the Horns returned at noon, they found Debra gone. Her coat and boots were still in the closet, her two pet poodles were still in the house and the back door was open.

No ransom note has been received and authorities insist that anything beyond the fact that Debra has disappeared is "speculation."

PAINFUL FINISH for Boston Celtics' super star and player-coach Bill Russell, as he writhes in agony on the floor after suffering severe knee sprain collision with Knicks' Willis Reed in closing seconds of loss to New York. He is expected to be out a week or 10 days. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Russell Is Injured

Knicks Nick Celts, 95-94

By DAVE O'HARA

Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics, struggling in defense of their National Basketball Association championship, found themselves in serious trouble today with Player-Coach Bill Russell hospitalized and lost for at least a week.

Russell, who has led the Celtics to 10 titles with brilliant defensive play in his dozen years as a pro, suffered severely strained ligaments in his right knee in a 95-94 loss to the New York Knicks Sunday at Boston Garden.

With New York in front 95-92, the 6-foot-9 Russell took a pass and scored a layup. He fell hard to the floor and writhed in pain as the Knicks ran out the final 12 seconds.

Russell, 35, finally was carried on a stretcher to the dressing room and transferred 30 minutes later to University Hospital, where X-rays were negative.

Dr. Thomas Silva, the team physician, said a bone specialist would examine the injury in 24 hours. Barring unforeseen swelling he was "very optimistic" that Russell would be able to return to the Celtics in a week or 10 days.

General Manager Red Auerback, who turned over the coaching reins to Russell after the 1965-66 season, announced he would return to the bench on a temporary basis.

In other games Baltimore walloped Detroit 128-106, Philadelphia overcame Chicago 112-104, Atlanta defeated San Diego 115-103, Phoenix nipped Milwaukee 122-121 and San Francisco outlasted Los Angeles 122-117 in three overtimes.

On Saturday, the Knicks clobbered the Celtics 109-82, Los Angeles beat San Francisco 106-101 in overtime, Atlanta belted Detroit 119-99, Cincinnati tripped Seattle 111-96 and San Diego downed Milwaukee 101-95.

In the American Basketball Association Sunday, Dallas trimmed Kentucky 104-101, Houston defeated Miami 94-89, Miami bounced Indiana 130-113, New York whipped Los Angeles 96-85 and Denver topped Oakland 119-105.

Although the game turned into a rough and ragged affair in the final period, Russell was injured on a play lacking stiff body contact. He said he thought he may have been hit on the leg as he lunged.

The surging Knicks, who have won 20 of their last 24 games, moved ahead of Boston into third place in the Eastern Division.

Dave DeBusschere put the Knicks ahead to stay 89-87 with a three-point play and Bill Bradley's two free throws with 14 seconds left gave New York a 95-92 lead.

Ray Scott with 26 points, Earl Monroe with 24 and Wes Unseld with 22 and 18 rebounds paced Baltimore to an easy victory. Philadelphia scored the last nine points in the final 44 seconds to beat the Bulls. Wally Jones had 27 points to lead the 76ers.

Atlanta pulled ahead for good in the second period and held off San Diego behind Lou Hudson's 35 points and 21 by reserve Paul Silas.

Gail Goodrich's basket with 19 seconds left broke a 116-111 tie and he and Dick Van Arsdale kept Phoenix ahead with free throws. Goodrich finished with 37 points.

Nate Thurmond, who scored 24 points and grabbed 34 rebounds, and Jim King scored seven points as San Francisco led all of the third overtime. The regular game ended tied at 86 and Los Angeles blew leads in the first two extra periods, which ended tied at 99 and 110.

Winning Is Easy Trick For Bruins

By MARTIN LADER
UPI Sports Writer

Winning has become such an easy trick for the Boston Bruins that they can even do it without their prize magician.

Star defenseman Bobby Orr was given the night off Sunday but it made little difference as Boston stretched its unbeaten streak to 17 games with a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Red Wings.

The triumph enabled the Bruins to maintain their six-point lead over Montreal in the East Division of the National Hockey League and moved them to within six games of tying the league record they set in 1940-41 of 23 consecutive games without a loss.

The St. Louis Blues stretched their West Division lead to 20 points over idle Oakland by beating the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3 and in other Sunday games Montreal defeated the Chicago Black Hawks 6-4, the New York Rangers blasted the Pittsburgh Penguins 7-3 and the Minnesota North Stars edged the Philadelphia Flyers 3-2.

Orr, who underwent knee surgery last year, aggravated a few days ago and Bruin coach Harry Sinden kept him out of the Detroit game as a precaution. The burden of upholding the Boston defense fell chiefly to Don Awrey, who played 50 minutes, and Ted Green, who played 45.

Asked how they performed, Sinden replied, "They're always outstanding. Maybe when Orr is out there they don't get noticed."

Green said, "I played a good game, but nothing special. Who's going to look at anybody else when Bobby's on ice. He always has the puck, and I know I watch him."

A breakaway goal by Eddie Westfall while the Bruins were short-handed in the second period gave them a 3-0 lead and proved to be the winning marker. Phil Esposito, John McKenzie and Glen Sather got the other Boston goals.

Gary Sabourin and Al Arbour scored within an 86-second span of the third period to provide St. Louis with its first victory of the season over Toronto. The Blues outshot the Leafs 48-27.

Jean Beliveau scored his 16th career hat trick and first of the campaign to pace Montreal's victory in an afternoon contest. Yvan Cournoyer scored twice for the Canadiens, his 29th and 30th goals of the season.

Jean Ratelle scored two goals and set up two others and rookie defenseman Brad Park had four assists as the Rangers equalled their season high for goals scored. Pittsburgh had faked a 2-0 first period lead before New York rallied for its sixth consecutive home victory.

Atlanta pulled ahead for good in the second period and held off San Diego behind Lou Hudson's 35 points and 21 by reserve Paul Silas.

Gail Goodrich's basket with 19 seconds left broke a 116-111 tie and he and Dick Van Arsdale kept Phoenix ahead with free throws. Goodrich finished with 37 points.

Atlanta pulled ahead for good in the second period and held off San Diego behind Lou Hudson's 35 points and 21 by reserve Paul Silas.

Gail Goodrich's basket with 19 seconds left broke a 116-111 tie and he and Dick Van Arsdale kept Phoenix ahead with free throws. Goodrich finished with 37 points.

into the contest with a scoring average of 110 points a game, munity of Region XV, 98-90, at second only to the fantastic 139 average boasted by Indian River JC of Fort Pierce, Florida.

The only team to beat Post this season was Nassau Community College, 98-90, at Ft. Polk, La., may be wondering how Jack Nicklaus won the 1969 $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament and required 284 strokes to do it.

Weiskopf, you see, won the tournament a year ago, before the U.S. Army borrowed him, and did it in 273 shots.

And Nicklaus walked away, headed today for the Bob Hope Classic at Palm Springs, with the $30,000 winner's loot in another rather unusual situation.

Seldom in these days does a professional golfer overcome a deficit of two strokes, win by one—and do it with a final round one-over par.

Generally something like four-under in the last round is required.

As it turned out Nicklaus, the Big Bear from Columbus, Ohio, defeated San Diego's hometown hero, Gene Littler, in a two-man duel Sunday.

Littler's artistic 67 over the par 72 Torrey Pines Golf Club Saturday sent him into Sunday's final round two strokes in front of Nicklaus.

But Torrey Pine's tough par-4 holes led to Littler's loss. Its five bogeys were all on them.

He finished with 76 and the only birdie he got came on the final green. Nicklaus had finished—with a bogey six on the last hole—and Gene needed an eagle to tie. His birdie broke the possibility of a three-way tie for second.

Young Dave Stockton and veteran Tommy Aaron had slipped in with 70s and 72-hole scores of 286.

Donohue gave much of the credit for the success of the winning car to Parsons, a last-minute substitution for Ronnie Buckmann, who broke a finger in a motorcycle accident. "I think he did a terrific job of adapting to the car and to Dayton," said Donohue of his driving partner, who never before had competed either at night or at Daytona.

Parsons was driving and Donohue sleeping when the final Porsche was removed from the competition. Donohue said he was awakened and told the Penske-Lola was the leading car still running, although it still trailed the Porsche.

"If you had almost no chance of winning and suddenly you were given a chance at $15,000, how would you feel?" Donohue grinned. "It was just a question of keeping our car together and running out the laps we were behind."

Third place overall and top spot in the over two-liter touring class went to a tough little Pontiac Firebird driven by the team of Jerry Titus and Jon Ward. Fourth was a Porsche 911T driven by Bruce Jennings of Towson, Md., and Herb Watson of Hewlett Bay, N.Y., the leaders when the checkered flag dropped Sunday, signaling an end to the 8th annual Daytona Endurance Test—longest and, at $86,000, the richest of its kind in America.

Even the winning Lola drivers, Mark Donohue and Chuck Parsons, were surprised that the Porsches from Stuttgart were not around at the finish—the last departed after only 18 hours with a broken intermediate shaft.

Also missing were Marshall O'Neil, second highest scorer on the team, and Frank Horn. Ed Hill, the 6 foot 2 Region

XV scoring leader with a 32-point average, paced the home standing Warriors with 42 points on a sizzling 64 per cent on 18 for 28. The winners clicked on 50 of 88 shots for a hefty 56.8 percentage.

Jerry Moss led the Senators with 23 points, with Ray Lindhorst and Gary Kirkwood hitting 21 each. UCCC hit 43 per cent with 42 baskets in 97 tries.

With some of his big guns missing, Coach Perry fielded a starting five of Moss, Kirkwood, Lindhorst, Ed Torroni and Mike Derrenbacher.

Derrenbacher, a 5-7 defensive specialist who played 24 games with UCCC's 1967-68 Mid-Hudson Conference champions, made his debut with the team after missing the first half season. He contributed nine points.

Torroni, who was a surprise starter in place of Larry Trippodo, hit for 8 points.

Ulster got off to a good start against the Post powerhouse breaking to a 6-3 lead in the early minutes on a 15-foot jumper by Lindhorst and deuces by Kirkwood and Moss. A free throw by Richie Gillis tied the score at 6-6. Hill connected for his first points with two straight baskets, the second from 15 feet, to put post ahead 10-6 and Ulster was behind the rest of the way.

Hill lived up to all expectations, as he displayed a beautiful jump shot that was effective anywhere from 10 to 25 feet. He racked up his 42 points despite sitting out eight minutes of the first half after drawing three fouls near the end of the first half.

Ulster resumes its Mid-Hudson conference schedule with road games at Orange CCC Wednesday and Saturday at Dutchess Community.

Woodstock Home Is Burglarized

WOODSTOCK — The home of James Montaine, West Hurley Road, Town of Woodstock was illegally entered last week and dresser drawers and closets ransacked, it was reported to the County Sheriff's Office.

Erwin Holzumer, caretaker told Sheriff's Deputy Donald Policastro that he noticed a window broken. He said the break-in was between 5 p. m. Jan. 26 to 4:45 p. m. Sunday. As the owner is out-of-town he was unable to determine the value of articles reportedly stolen.

County Investigator Harold T. Bowers is continuing the investigation.

Three Drown As Car Plunges Through Ice

PULASKI, N.Y. (AP) — A Syracuse area man and two children drowned Sunday when their automobile plunged through ice on Sandy Pond near the eastern shore of Lake Ontario as they returned to land from an afternoon of ice-fishing.

Dead were Theodore Anderson, said to be in his 50s, of Cicero, James Colvin, 4, and Theresa Colvin, 6, of Brewerton. Both towns are suburbs of Syracuse.

The children's father, Melvin Colvin, 27, and their 7-year-old brother Joseph, escaped from the vehicle when it sank into the icy 12-foot deep water.

Witnesses said the car was about a mile out from shore when the ice cracked.

Two bystanders, David Graham and Gary Getman, both of Syracuse, rushed to the area. Graham dove into the freezing water with a rope tied around him, held by his companion, and pulled Joseph from the vehicle.

The boy's father escaped from the car himself.

Graham was unable to reach the victims trapped in the car. Police and firemen later were unsuccessful in fighting to get into the car.

Ice fishermen in the area said the pond usually is covered by 10 to 20 inches of ice. The spot where the car fell through, however, was covered by only four inches of ice.

Dear Abby

Meets City Crackpot

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am an ordinary man, single and 47. I was recently in New York on a bus travel tour and was having lunch alone in one of those automat restaurants when a woman of about 30 came and sat at my table and struck up a conversation. She started off by saying she knew I was a Catholic priest as she had seen me in a pulpit once and she never forgets a face. She kept calling me "Father."

I tried to tell her that I was not a priest, but she persisted. I told her three times to please quit calling me "Father," and I even showed her my identification, but it didn't help. It got to be so exasperating I finally hurried up my lunch and left. Abby, are there lots of crackpots like this in New York? And what is a person supposed to do in a situation like that?

FROM BUFFALO
DEAR FROM: New York has more crackpots (I call them "psychoeramics") than other cities because there are more people there. And the only way to handle them is to do as you did. Beat a hasty retreat.

DEAR ABBY: I'll get right to the point. I am 23 and am practically engaged to a wonderful guy. We've gone together for nearly a year and I have stuck to my "hands off" policy, which was not easy.

My question: How much should I tell my fiancé about my past? To be honest with you I am not lily-white. (There have been several men.) Should

I tell him how many, and who they were?

I hate to lie, but I don't want this thrown back in my face later on. Please help me.

ITHACA
DEAR ITHACA: It's not necessary to provide your fiancé with the names and numbers of the previous players. I am not suggesting that you lie. Simply tell him (if he asks) that your "past" is a closed chapter, and he will have to accept you as you ARE—or not at all.

DEAR ABBY: Please say something to people who have all day to do their shopping, but wait to do it when we working folks have to do ours. Have you ever tried to do your marketing right after work to find yourself standing behind a line of homemakers, still in their curlers, looking for something to cook fast before the old man comes home? Or some tired, dirty man, just off the job, getting grub for dinner because his wife got a Charley horse in her tongue from drinking all day with the girl next door.

Try it some time, you will get the urge to kill. Thank you. FURIOUS IN PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOSING OUT IN BERERLY HILLS: No intelligent, worthwhile man will abandon the company of a mature, interesting woman simply because a "young doll" comes on the scene. There are too many young dolls sitting at home while fifty-ish women continue to pick off the best bachelors.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

NO ZING: (Q.) My girl friend is the nicest and most well-mannered girl I've ever dated. We have fun on our dates and never have any spats.

She's the kind of a girl a guy would want to marry. I've thought of asking her when the time is right.

Just one thing worries me. We do a lot of kissing, but when we do I feel very little.

I thought that when you loved someone you felt very good when you kissed. What do you think I should do? She's still in her teens. I'm 20 now.—Undecided in Winston-Salem, N.C.

(A.) The time is not right for you to ask her. The right time could come later when you and she are older, but only if you warm up to her and your regard for her grows into something stronger.

Unless it does, beware. A marriage without fire in it is gray and cold and likely to die.

NOSE IN WAY: (Q.) What can I do for my nose. It looks exactly like Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer's. Don't tell me to keep it out of the sun. It isn't sunburned. It's just red. It also has blackheads on it.

I want to turn on around the girls, but my nose gets in the way.—Dan in Lincoln, Neb.

(A.) If you were a girl you could cover it up with make-up. But you're not, so your best bet is a good dermatologist.

He may be able to prescribe something to tone down or camouflage the redness, and he certainly can take care of the blackheads. Keeping your nose clean (with soap and water) will also be good for them.

When you've done all you and the dermatologist can, forget your nose and turn the girls on with any good points you may have—such as eyes, build, voice, posture, personality.

comstockery (KOM-stock-uh-ree) the banning or suppression of certain books, pamphlets, plays etc. considered harmful to public welfare. The senator's opposition against all forms of comstockery was widely applauded. During an election campaign, many over-zealous politicians advocate comstockery because they want to win votes. The minister's argument, that comstockery was necessary to insure public morality, was challenged by a local housewife.

'Genre' Films TV Blessing

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—One of the nicest things about television is that it gives movie buffs a chance to determine which old films hold up best over the years, and why. What becomes increasingly obvious in watching the reruns is that the motion pictures attached to a timely contemporary theme of a given moment are those that date the fastest, and fail to hold up.

For example, there seems little doubt that the current rash of movies about homosexuality and lesbianism will date particularly fast—if one is talking about the American films about these subjects. For while the themes are universal and timeless, the contents and attitudes expressed in these American films are geared pretty much to satisfying the sudden new freedom of audiences and creators. In short, exploitation of an explosive, sudden escape from the puritanism of the past. It may, by the way, seem odd to refer to explorations of sexual themes as contemporary. Yet it is the American nature—and films are no different—to treat sex as though it were just discovered yesterday, particularly the forms of sex that are generally considered unnatural.

And this juvenile exploitation of the subject is going to make many youngsters who are growing up today wiser than ever, wonder in just a few years what all the excitement was about concerning these primitive American sex epics.

As seen to this viewer from television, the movies that seem to hold up best are frank period pieces or "genre" films—that either accept it on its own terms, or reject it. The closest of a specific type, in terms, or reject it. The closest of a special period, and pretty dismal too.

President Meeting With Urban Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon called his Urban Affairs Council to another meeting in the White House today as he continued formulating plans to deal with the problems of the nation's cities.

In the first meeting Jan. 23, the eight-man team of Cabinet members and presidential advisers dispensed of organizational matters, leaving today's session open to consider substantive issues.

The emphasis on urban and other domestic matters underlined by scheduled visits to the Housing and Urban Development Department, followed a weekend in which the President spent much time on foreign affairs.

The National Security Council also met Saturday and discussed the Arab-Israeli situation at length, but there were no conclusions announced.

A member of the Urban Affairs Council, Cabinet officer George Romney, indicated the line his agency will take in trying to cure urban ills.

Romney, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, said he hopes to come up with a program to provide more homes for low-income families.

Concurring with estimates that 26 million new homes will be needed in the United States over the next decade, Romney, however, said "I don't think the programs that we have at present will achieve these goals." He indicated his agency hopes to come up with new ways to meet the shortage.

Another Council staff member, presidential assistant Daniel P. Moynihan, indicated Sunday that welfare payments should continue as a way to help solve urban problems.

Welfare payments should not be considered handouts, he said, but investments that will help make the nation stable, prosperous and happy.

Moynihan, a sociologist before being appointed a Nixon aide, also called for an end to the nation's unemployment. He said his view on the jobless rate were his own and not necessarily those of the White House.

Romney was interviewed on NBC's TV radio program, "Meet the Press," and Moynihan appeared on the "Evans-Novak Report" of Metromedia television.

In other presidential activity Sunday, the White House worship services drew about 250 persons, many of them congressional leaders.

Humphrey Gives Reasons

Why Did U.S. Approve Missile Defense?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says the Johnson administration approved a U.S. missile defense to "quicken the interest of the Soviet Union" in strategic arms negotiations.

"I have always been skeptical in my own mind about the security value of deploying an ABM (antiballistic missile) system," Humphrey says in an introductory to a report on the missile shield controversy.

"I share the reservations stated by Secretary (Robert S.) McNamara when he announced the ABM deployment in 1967.

"At the same time, I understood the reasons why the President felt the preparations for a limited deployment might quicken the interest of the Soviet Union in meaningful negotiations on the strategic arms race, provided we place top priority on the urgent necessity of reaching an agreement on the ABM issue," Humphrey stated.

In major pronouncements, mainly by McNamara, the Johnson administration insisted the antimissile defense was designed to guard against the threat of a nuclear-armed Red China in the 1970s.

Critics of the system now being built, the $5.5 billion Sentinel defense, have contended, however, that it is merely first step toward a $40 billion anti-Soviet shield.

Time and again Humphrey spoke of the Soviet nuclear threat while making only one passing reference to Red China's "overt hostility."

His remarks were in a report on antimissile pros and cons published by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, a nonprofit educational group which claims 85,000 members.

For his part, Humphrey said new emphasis ought to be put on ironing out an arms limitation pact with the Soviets, rather than escalating the strategic race with more and fancier offensive and defensive weapons.

New Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird suggested in a news conference last week that work on the Sentinel should be continued as a bargaining item for use in any U.S. negotiating with the Soviets on strategic weapons.

Humphrey implied he thinks the bargaining aspect would be Sentinel's chief value.

"In this light, ABM might yet provide a great service in advancing the strategic arms negotiations if, having taken the system to this stage of development, we set it aside as a symbol of our determination to halt the arms race where it is, and turn it back if we can," Humphrey said.

U.S. Forces Kill 218 Near Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—In battling around Saigon, U.S. forces killed 218 Viet Cong but some 400 guerrillas ambushed and mauled a 350-man South Vietnamese force, military spokesmen said today.

The weekend fighting roared as Allied units tried to smash a Communist buildup around the capital.

U.S. troops killed 163 Communists in four battles within 30 miles of Saigon. The Americans suffered 10 men killed and 43 wounded. B52 bombers killed the rest of the Communists in a strike 85 miles below the capital.

But in the Mekong Delta jungles 62 miles south of Saigon a Viet Cong battalion trapped two South Vietnamese companies in machine gun crossfire. South Vietnamese spokesmen described their losses Sunday as "heavy—over 100 men were killed or wounded."

U.S. infantrymen struck the heaviest blow in a rice paddy district 19 miles southwest of Saigon. Fighting Saturday and Sunday, they killed 55 of the guerrillas. In the same area they killed 42 early last week.

Two battles erupted in the infiltration routes the guerrillas used from the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon.

Exchange Proposal Dominates Talks

PARIS (UPI)—An Allied proposal for a prisoner exchange in Vietnam dominated consultations between U.S. and Saigon delegates to the Paris peace talks today.

Allied delegation sources said the possibility of beginning an exchange of prisoners of war was to be the burden of the Allied presentation to the third session Thursday, of the deadlocked talks.

The sources said U.S. delegation leader Henry Cabot Lodge and his Saigon opposite number, Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, were determined to press their demand that the talks center first on military de-escalation before the more complex topic of political bargaining was raised.

The North Vietnamese and their Viet Cong allies already have rejected that approach and demanded that military discussions be tied to political negotiations about the future of South Vietnam.

To avoid deepening the deadlock, the Allies will bring up the prisoner issue in the hopes it will be more acceptable than their suggestions the talks begin with the restoration of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), and an agreement on mutual troop withdrawals, the sources said.

This would go along with President Nixon's strategy of making specific and concrete proposals to the other side at each session in the hopes that eventually the Communists will agree to discuss them.
